

Abstract

Disclosed herein are techniques for generating textual descriptions of a graphic model and vice-versa. The techniques may be used, for example, in conjunction with a scheme that 5 models objects and processes as independent entities. The techniques have a wide variety of applications including automatic code generation, system simulation, and language translation.